

Centre for Education and Communication organises two day workshop in Golaghat

ET Correspondent
Golaghat, Mar 29: Centre for Education and Communication of New Delhi organised two days residential workshop with a theme of 'Naturally Organic Tea Cultivation' at Pesco resort Bokakhat recently. In the very program more than 35 small tea growers of Golaghat, Jorhat and Karbi Anglong took part. It is to be known that the program was running since 2011 and 50000 beneficiaries were able to establish themselves. The program is running on in West Bengal, Assam, Tripura, Arunachal Pradesh, and Mizoram. In Assam it was first took place in Tinsukia district.

The Project Officers namely Sujit Hazarika, Minto Goswami, imparted their lectures by using Digitech technology.

An officer of Kharagpur IIT named Dr. Shoumen Palit was present as a resource person. Palit have served as a Chief Scientist and Research & Development head of various industries. He have developed and discomated modern agricultural technology related to Agriculture and Tea Industry in National and International level.

He addressed small tea growers on the topic 'Naturally Organic Tea Cultivation' by giving practical as well as theoretical knowledge. He discussed and practically gave training on vermicomposting, nadet composite, cow pet pit manufacturing etc.

The Workshop was arranged in Educative cum creative way which was appreciated by all the tea growers who were present in the said workshop. They were given participating certificate by the Centre for Education and Communication.